HAS NOT SOLD.

Thos. Powers Hasn't Disposed Of His Tobacco—Plan To Have A S. E. Meetings Here.

The News gladly publishes the following communication it has received from Thomas Powers, of Patesville:

"I see in your issue of December 19 you state that the local agent of the American Tobacco Company bought the following crops of dark tobacco yesterday, at $6, $6, $2; J. D. Iome, 6,000 pounds; H. S. Kinkade, 9,000; Geo. Curry 1,500; Thos. Powers, 5,000. "Now, Mr. Editor, you state that only one of the four that sold is a member of the American Society of Equity. As I am the one of the four that you say sold and I am the one that is a member of said society I wish to correct you in said statement positively hereby stating that I have sold only one of said tobacco or authorized any one to sell for me, and will say that I am pledged with my local union to hold for the price of $8 for leaf, $8 for lines and $8 for trash, and will say that you will confer a great favor by correcting your statement in your next issue."

The News was informed by Mr. J. D. Iome, on Tuesday morning of last week, that the above crops had been sold. It regrets publishing the error concerning Mr. Powers' crop to the degree it takes a pleasure in correcting the error. It thanks Mr. Powers for this statement, because it is glad that not even this one member of the Society has sold his tobacco, and because it feels sure that with men like this in a farmers' combine, it is the combine that is going to win.

Plan Big Local Meetings.

At the county meeting of tobacco growers at Hardinsburg January 7, it will be proposed that a time be set for a general meeting in Cloverport for the purpose of selecting this city as a place for monthly meetings of several local unions of the A. S. of E. in Hancock and Breckenridge counties. Some of these unions are as follows: Hite's Run, McAdams & Co., Hardin's, Pigeon, Persimmon Flat, Balltown, Tani's, Duke's, Hawesville No. 1 and No. 2, Gering No. 1, Patesville No. 1.

HER MOTHER'S DARLING.

Dimple May Gibson. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gibson, of McMillen, born June 10, 1904.

An Emergency Medicine.
For sprains, bruises, burns, scalds and similar injuries, there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It soothes the wound and not only gives instant relief from pain, but cures the parts to heal in about one third the time required by the usual treatment. Sold by Short & Haynes.

LYONS HELD OVER.

Marshal Orloff DeHaven and Judge J. H. Willis went to Hardinsburg Friday to attend the trial of Frank Lyons, a Hardinsburg negro who was arrested here for stealing a horse from John Kennedy, of near that place. An examining trial was waived and Lyons was held over to the grand jury. He was unable to give a bond of $100 and was reconfinned to jail.

GILLILAND RESIGNS.

It will be news to many of our readers to know that Geo. W. Gilliland, of Owensboro, United States deputy marshal for this district, has resigned the office and has been succeeded by C. C. Nichols, of Owensboro. Mr. Gilliland has made quite a number of arrests in this county.

WED AT HARNED.

Marriage Miss Bessie Eskridge And Mr. Allen M. Weatherford At Home Of The Bride.

Hardinsburg, Ky., Dec. 27.—(Special.)—On Wednesday, December 27, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Green, near Harned, Miss Bessie Eskridge was united in marriage to Mr. Allen M. Weatherford. The Rev. J. T. Lewis, of Irvington, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. After receiving congratulations, the bride party were driven to the home of Mr. Arch Weatherford, where supper was given them and a few invited guests.

The bride is the daughter of the late Judge Ehjah Eskridge and a sister to Mr. Morris Eskridge, the well known attorney. She is a charming young woman with a wide circle of friends. Mr. Weatherford is a son of Mr. Arch Weatherford and is a promising young farmer and business man, and is connected with the best families of the county. Among those present at the wedding were Mr. J. P. Hawell, H. M. Eschridge, Louisville, Miss Nancy Board, Frank Hawell and Miss Bettie Hawell, of Arcata, Ill., L. W. Williams, New Orleans, La. The young couple will reside at Harned.

TO ENTERTAIN.

Miss Louise Babbage will entertain Thursday evening in honor of David Ditto, of West Point, Fred Ditto, of Brandenburg, and Wallace Babbage and J. D. Babbage, Jr.

Miss Maude Polk will entertain this afternoon from 2 to 5 in honor of Miss Verma Ryan, of Tinsboro, Ind.

Miss Jennie Mabel Harris will entertain the younger set at her home Friday evening.

Misses Ella and Jane Smith will entertain informally Saturday evening.

Miss Margaret Moorman will entertain Friday afternoon.

Misses Anna and Edna Jarboe will entertain this evening.

WAR ON WINDOWS.

Some persons made war Thursday night on glass in windows and elsewhere. A missile was sent through a plate glass window in the Masonic Temple, making a small hole and cracking the glass, a smaller window was shattered, and a large rock was hurled through a window at T. F. Sawyer's wallpaper store. A pistol was used to destroy a street lamp at the corner of First and High streets. A couple of bread baskets were taken from the English Kitchen and dropped into Clover creek, the same night, probably by the same parties. The parties have not been apprehended.

TWIN TOBACCO LEAVES.

J. Fladger Carter brought to the News office last week twin tobacco leaves, or, in other words, a tobacco stem with two large leaves on it. Each leaf, in its growth, has clung very closely to the stem, one being on each side. The freak is one of Mr. Carter's growth. He says he has never seen nor heard of anything like it.

The twin tobacco leaves are on exhibit at the News office.

SICK IN CITY JAIL.

Levi Harshard, of Louisville, and Jas. Biddle, of Paris, Ky., were provided with food and shelter in the city seven days last week. Harshard was ill of dropsy and his heart was badly affected. He remained in the jail while here and was attended by a physician paid by the city. Both men were furnished with transportation to Louisville, where they went Thursday morning.

Harshard and Biddle were returning from Owensboro, where they went in search of work. As they got without money when here they asked the city for help.

DECIDES TO RUN.

C. E. Lightfoot, at the solicitation of friends, has decided to make the race for sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Mr. Lightfoot will shortly make his public announcement for his candidacy for the office. He was an efficient official when he was once city marshal of Cloverport, and would make a good man for sheriff.

LEAVES MANY CREDITORS.

C. M. Clark, Poultry Buyer, Skips the County, Owing $3,482.69 to Nearly Forty Victims of Swindle.

HIS BIG OPERATIONS AT IRVINGTON.

C. M. Clark, of Pittsburg, Pa., present whereabouts unknown, has just swindled something like thirty-eight creditors in this and adjoining counties on a sum aggregating in value $3,482.69. For about two weeks Clark's big operations were at Irvington. He sent agents, up and down both the main and the branch lines of the Henderson Route and they bought poultry in large quantities. J. B. Biggs, of Irvington, being Clark's manager and solicitor. Clark paid cash for a large part of the poultry he bought but he did not pay for several thousand dollars worth, and he shipped more away from Irvington than he left there to pay his creditors. Clark left the county on last Thursday, and the result is that a sale of his stuff will be made next Thursday for the benefit of his disbelievably surprised creditors, who are the unsuspicious victims of the biggest swindle of its kind in the history of this part of the State.

Clark came to Irvington nearly three weeks ago. He established a poultry station and deposited $2,500 in the First State Bank at Irvington. He sent out his buyers, and for a week or more thousands of eggs, chickens, turkeys and geese poured into Irvington by wagons and by trains from throughout the country for miles in every direction. Clark paid Louisville prices and cash down for all the stuff he could get direct from the farmers, and they sold readily. But, at many towns, he had the merchants to buy for him from the farmers in their vicinities. He paid them for the first shipments they made to him, but left Irvington before he paid for the last ones, and he also went away with $200 belonging to the First State Bank, and that is why the climax came Saturday afternoon. When Deputy Sheriff H. M. Beard, of Hardinsburg, closed up Clark's establishment under an attachment issued by the First State Bank.

Clark soon drew out by checks the $2,500 he had deposited in the First State Bank, to pay for the first shipments of poultry. He then drew out $500 on a draft on a Cincinnati bank. He presented a second draft for $300, with a bill of lading for one of the cars of poultry he had shipped at Irves. He kept the original bill of lading and gave the duplicate to the bank. The bank paid his checks amounting to $398, but before it had paid all the amount of the draft it received a message from the Cincinnati bank stating that Clark had drawn out all his money there.

In the meantime, Clark got ready to make one of the best plays in his swindling scheme. He left Irvington on the late train Thursday night and came to Cloverport. Here he met Mr. Biggs, who was not any wiser than the victims of his swindles as to Clark's intentions. He told Mr. Biggs to return to Irvington and continue to conduct the business and told him that he (Clark) had to go on a trip to look after cars of poultry which he had shipped. Clark left this city on the 5:30 morning train Friday and has not been heard of or seen since. He left his grip and some other belongings at Irvington and it did not look of course, as though he intended to skip.

Friday the First State Bank received a message from the Cincinnati bank, stating that Clark had to close Clark's establishment. The town was all excitement as soon as the thing was made known, and those who had claims against Clark were looking up a way to get in on the first floor.

This list of claims made against Clark is as follows: First State Bank, Irvington, $398; Peter Sheeran Bros. & Co., Kirk, $473.20; B. F. Beard & Co., Hardinsburg, $138.85; Joseph Teaff, Hardinsburg, $65.91; Wilson & Co., Fordville, $24.5; E. F. Lyons & Bro., Vandy, $65.51; Lee Rhodes, Paynesville, $200; D. S. Richardson, Union Star, $60; W. J. Schopp, Stephensport, $107.98; T. A. Gray, Garfield, $166.65; W. C. Moorman, Glenade, $432.32; E. M. Davis, West View, $43.78; Wade Pile, Mook, $65; H. T. Suttley, Lost Run, $20.30; Sam Henderson, West View, $7.99; Jolly, Gardner & Co., Irvington, $16.34; C. F. Redman, $67.74; D. S. Richardson, Brandenburg, $100; D. S. Childs, Ekron, $87.92; A. M. McClure, Union Star, $24.20; D. D. & Alexander, Brandenburg, $75.57; $70.60; A. T. Vos, Brandenburg, $8.35; A. C. Marshall, Union Star, $30.97; W. M. Hardin, Louisville, $48.35; J. B. Board & Co. Holt, $14.20; G. W. Thompson, Irvington, $30.70; Blythe, Irvington, $2.20; J. W. Kendall, Irvington, $14.17; J. T. Drane & Co., West View, $44.07; S. T. Rice, Ashtab, $10.20; G. W. Hardesty, Paynesville, $70.14; T. F. Condit, Gaston, $9.12; R. S. Bandy, Irvington, $88.44; F. Fraize, Cloverport, $25.35; Geo. Wilson, Hawesville, $27; P. B. Brown, Lewisport, $34.90.

Attachments for the first ten claims named have been filed in circuit court against the poultry left at Irvington by Clark, and the others, with one exception, were filed in Squire Jolly's court at Irvington. The exception is the largest claim, that of W. C. Moorman, which was filed in the United States court at Stephensport, pending bankruptcy proceedings and thus annulling the attachments. The attorneys of the claimants agreed Thursday to have a sale of the poultry left at Irvington for the benefit of all the creditors. The value of the stuff Clark didn't get away with is estimated to be far below the sum due his creditors. None of the fowls sold can be identified by the merchants as all were turned loose in a common lot.

DEATH ENDS UNTOLD SUFFERINGS OF MRS. BROWN, OF NEARSAMPLE.

Death came, at about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and ended the untold sufferings of Mrs. Letcher Brown, of near Samples. Since December 1, she had hovered between life and death, as the result of serious burns she received about the body on that date while trying to rescue her children from their burning home. It was thought by her physicians, just after the fire, that she could not live more than a few days. For days her condition was critical and her life was despaired of. But in a week or so she improved some and it was thought by some she might recover. Recently she grew worse until death came. Mrs. Brown's death marked the close of one of the saddest events of its kind in the history of the county, two of her children having lost their lives as a result of burns received in the fire.

The funeral will be held today and the interment will be at Sample.

T. F. OWEN DEAD.

Thos. F. Owen, a son of Judge W. T. Owen, of Owensboro, and a native of Breckenridge county, died in Owensboro Monday afternoon. He was forty-two years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Babbage and little son, Henry, came up from Owensboro Sunday to visit relatives.

Roy Heyser came home from Charlotte, N. C., to spend Christmas.

THE ORANGE SALESMAN.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 24, 1904. Mr. E. C. Babbage, Cloverport, Ky., Dear Mr. Babbage:—We are glad to hand you, under another cover, a very handsome Christmas present, viz., a gold watch, and, at the same time, crown you "The Orange Salesman," you having been the most successful salesman on oranges to country trade. We hope this may be an incentive for your work the coming year of 1905 and that you may be as successful in other undertakings as you have been in this particular one.

Again complimenting you on victory in this race, and with compliments of the season, we are, Yours very truly, American Grocery Co.

SPECIAL MEETING.

The city council held a special meeting Friday night to make provision for extra police protection during a part of the holidays and to consider the matter of lighting the city with gasolene. J. M. Gregory and J. C. Weatherholt were appointed extra duty marshals and Horace Newton night marshal.

The gasolene lights that are proposed for lighting the streets are cheaper and as effective as electric lights, it is said. The proposition is from a Chicago company, its process of lighting being a new invention. The matter is being considered by the street committee, and it will likely be reported on at the regular meeting on January 2.

CORRECTION.

Irvington, Ky., Dec. 26, 1904. Mr. John Babbage, Dear Friend: I am sorry you and other friends have been misled by a statement from the Irvington correspondent that I was the recipient of a horse and buggy for such is not my good luck. The correspondent could not discriminate between a jest and facts. The horse and buggy was only a velocipede for my grandson. Please correct this mistake in your next paper. An ardent your congratulations were misplaced. Obedient friend Dave Washington.

HAS RETURNED

After An Unusual Experience In Mountains—Proctor Keith's Trip To Perry County.

J. Proctor Keith, of the firm of J. E. Keith & Son, returned on Tuesday night of last week from Hazard, Ky., where he spent about a month doing stone work on a building to be occupied by the Bank of Hazard. There was extra stone work to be done on the building than was called for in the contract, and as Mr. Keith wished to avoid trouble, which he foresees over the pay for the work, he left Hazard on Sunday a week ago. A week before he left he declared his intention of leaving and heard soon afterwards that his life would be in danger if he attempted to do so. This hastened his departure from Hazard, which he made secretly on foot.

Mr. Keith worked about three weeks on the building to complete the contract. He then saw that there was more work than was called for in the plans. He then asked that he be paid daily wages for his work instead of the contract price. He stated his intention of quitting the work if this was not done, and the bank people told him they would attach his clothes and tools if he did so, and a man told him "they said they would guage a couple of forty-fives would hold him" if he tried to get away. They agreed to pay for extra work done, and he worked another week. Then, on Saturday a week ago, he asked them how much they were going to give him for extra work done and they said they would see about that when the work was completed. He was not pleased with this prospect, knew that he was not being treated right, and did not like to remain in a community where his life had been threatened. So on Sunday he left Hazard, escaping on foot to Jackson, a distance of forty miles. There he took a train for Cloverport. He sent his clothes in a wagon.

There were no guns drawn on Mr. Keith while he was at Hazard, and he worked for a week to avoid trouble, and not because he was forced to. He was not paid for his work, and $30 of his money deposited in the Bank of Hazard is still there.

A BRIGHT LITTLE BOY.

Garland Sheldon Bruster. The seven-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Bruster, of Union Star.

HAS STOOD THE TEST 25 YEARS. The old, original GILLESPIE'S Tonic. Chills? Tremor? You know what you are taking. It is iron and quinine in a tasteful form. No cure, no pay.

ORDER WAS GOOD.

Though large crowds were in town the latter part of last week there was very good order, and it was not necessary for Marshal DeHaven and his deputies to make any arrests. There were a number of plain drunks but the parties who were on the outside of the liquor were gently escorted to their homes. There seemed to be much drinking, and the few persons who heard that a man went to Owensboro Saturday morning with $100 in his pocket belonging to his friends which was to be converted into whisky to be returned on the afternoon train.

BROTHER MURDERED.

Mr. J. E. Rushing, a brother of Rev. J. T. Rushing, presiding elder of the M. E. church, South, Owensboro district, was murdered last week, by a Mr. Curry, his partner in business at Shawneetown, Ill. Curry was drunk at the time of the killing, and was high against him at Shawneetown. Curry is now trying to starve himself to death and his attorneys say his mental condition is abnormal. His examining trial has been put off until January 10, 1905.

Don't forget the old man with the fish on his back. For nearly thirty years he has been traveling around the world, and is still traveling, bringing health and comfort wherever he goes. To the consumptive he brings the strength and flesh he so much needs. To all weak and sickly children he gives rich and strengthening food. To thin and pale persons he gives new firm flesh and rich red blood. Children who first saw the old man with the fish are now grown up and have children of their own. He stands for Scott's Emulsion of pure cod liver oil—a delightful food and a natural tonic for children, for old folks and for all who need flesh and strength.

A Roman Butcher's Shop. The Museum of Antiquities at Dresden has an interesting collection of Roman household objects, including a butcher's shop.

The Museum of Antiquities at Dresden has an interesting collection of Roman household objects, including a butcher's shop. The shop is divided by a pillar into two unequal parts. In the larger part, a butcher is shown in the act of chopping a pig, while behind him hang the steelyard and a cleaver. In the smaller part, a butcher is shown in the act of chopping a pig, while behind him hang the steelyard and a cleaver.

Tender Hearted Butchers. One who has been employed these thirty years in slaughter houses as bookkeeper, salesman, etc., tells me: "To say that butchers are hard hearted is far from the truth; that is, in ancient times. Let me explain how the shedding of human blood affects them. I once saw a butcher cut his hand very severely, and not one of his twenty or more associates could be induced to go near to assist him. I had to bandage him up as well as I could and send him to a hospital. Another butcher who had helped slaughter from 2,000 to 4,000 hogs a day for years saw a woman throw herself before a freight train, which, unaided by her family, he promptly killed. I have seen more than a hundred fights at slaughter houses, but never yet saw a butcher attempt to use a knife."—New York Press.

The Widow's Cap. A very ancient origin, dating back to the time of the old Egyptians, has the widow's cap. The Greeks borrowed from the latter the custom of shaving the head and wearing a turban.

The Romans copied, but, being a smooth shaven people, had only the head upon which to operate. This, when shaved, the crown was shaved. The women did not necessarily shave their heads, but they were careful to hide their hair beneath a cap. The use of crapes upon the arm is a survival of military emblem of bereavement, come down to us from days of chivalry, when ladies fair bound scarfs upon the arms of their champions as they went to test their skill and courage in the tournament.

Right Doing. One's rightful work is often halted by fear of what others will say about it. This may be even more a barrier to the work than the fear of not doing the work at all. It takes courage to do what we believe we ought to do when we think we shall be criticised or misunderstood or scorned. But the real courage lies in doing what we ought. Of this it is well to have so strong a fear that we shall have courage to face whatever others may say of our right doing.—Maxwell's Talisman.

When Lee Resigned. In "Recollections and Letters of General Lee," by his son, Captain E. Lee, a new light is thrown on the great commander at the time of his resignation from the United States army. In a letter to his mother he says: "With all my devotion to the Union and the feeling of loyalty and duty of an American citizen, I have not been able to make up my mind to raise my hand against my relatives, my children, my home. I have therefore resigned my commission in the army, and save in defense of my native state, with the sincere hope that my poor services may never be called on to draw my sword. I know you will blame me, but you must think as kindly of me as you can and believe that I have endeavored to do what I thought right."

That he really did not expect to fight is shown by the following extract from a letter to his wife: "I do not know what my position will be. I should like to retire to private life if I could be with you and the children, but if I can be of any service to the state or her cause I must continue."

Circumstantial Evidence. Sir Henry Hawkins, a brilliant advocate and one of England's greatest criminal judges, expressed the following opinion in his "Reminiscences."

"Let me say a word about circumstantial evidence. Some writers have spoken of it as a kind of dangerous innovation in our criminal procedure. It is almost the only evidence that is obtainable in all great crimes and it is the least and most reliable. I have witnessed many great trials for murder, but do not remember one where there was an eyewitness to the deed. How is it possible, then, to bring home the charge to the culprit unless you rely on circumstantial evidence?"

"Circumstantial evidence is the evidence of circumstances—facts that speak for themselves and that cannot be contradicted. Circumstances have no motive to deceive, while human testimony is too often the product of every kind of motive."

Fish That Change Color. Anglers have noticed that fish of the same species caught in the same stream often differ completely in color and take protective hues that match the prevailing local coloration.

Herr Otto Gottlieb found by a course of experiments with turbot that this faculty of changing color in accordance with the surroundings is primarily due to the action of light upon the optic nerve. The light does not act directly upon the eye, but is reflected from such substances as are around and affect the color of the optic nerve centers of the fish. Proof of this was obtained by severing the optic nerve of the turbot, when it was found that it no longer possessed the power of changing color.—Pearson's.

The Misuse of "Quite." "Quite" strictly means "completely" and is rightly used in such sentences as "The law is quite fair," "The secondary meaning," "very," "to a great extent," "has the authority of good writers, though such expressions as "quite young" and "quite hot" have a colloquial ring about them. There is, however, springing up of late the slovenly practice of employing the adverb "quite" with a noun, e.g., "quite a panic epidemic." If an adverb can modify a noun, where is the distinction between adverb and adjective? As a matter of fact, the function of the adverb seems to be encroaching on those of the adjective.—London Review.

Spain's Orange Groves. The Spanish orange region extends over eastern and southern Catalonia, Valencia, Alicante, Murcia, Malaga and Seville, and in parts of Valencia and Murcia the trees now grow in forests, the soil of the famous Valencian "huerta," lavishly manured with guano, being the richest in Europe. Here a single full grown tree will yield 1,500 and at times as many as 1,800 oranges in a season, fruit bearing beginning when the trees reach their sixth year and increasing until they are twenty, when degeneration usually sets in.

Wedding Anniversaries. According to the tradition of ages, there are fourteen wedding anniversaries to be celebrated. These are: First year, cotton; second year, paper; third year, leather; fifth year, wood; seventh year, woolen; tenth year, tin; twelfth year, silk and fine linen; fifteenth year, crystal; twentieth year, china; twenty-fifth year, silver; thirtieth year, pearl; fortieth year, ruby; fiftieth year, golden; seventy-fifth year, diamond.

Boxed. They were returned from a basking box. "And were there any red ears?" asked the friend.

"Oh, yes," responded the girl in the gingham dress. "I had two when you and I first fell in love."—Keweenaw Co. Journal.

First Book Auction. Speaking of ancient and modern, a book dealer says: "The first book auction in England of which we have any record is of a date as far back as 1574, when the library of Sir, Beaumont was brought to the hammer. Prefixed to the catalogue there is an address which thus begins: 'Reader, it hath not been usual here in England to make sale of books by way of auction, or who will give the most for them; but, it having been practiced in other countries to the advantage of both buyers and sellers, it was therefore conceived for the encouragement of learning to publish the sale of these books in this manner of way.'"

When London is Silent. When a very dense fog settled over the Thames valley a few Sundays ago and most deeply over London it imposed a complete silence on animal life, London was itself as silent as the grave. For all traffic was stopped, and as on Sunday traffic of any kind is reduced to a minimum, the great city was almost as still as a country village at midnight. The streets and even the river were almost without a sound, for not a single truck was moving on the Thames. In the country no bird uttered a note. They all sat still, silent and waiting.

Forestry Reserves. The first forestry reserves were made for the general object of preserving the forest and without specific relation to the great problem for which later they were to provide the only solution. Now they are seen to stand at the center of public land policy of the nation, for out of them come the wood and the water and the grass which are indispensable for the founding of homes.—Gifford Pluchot.

Nothing Like Leather. At a public sale of books the auctioneer put up Drew's "Bony on Soils" which was knocked down to a shoe maker, who very innocently, but to the great amusement of the crowd, soon asked if there were any more books on shoemaking to be sold.

She Was It. It is enthusiastically—I love everything that is grand, beautiful, poetic and lovely. I love the peerless, the serene and the perfect in life. She—How you must love me, darling! Why did you not propose before?

The Art of Eating. Eating is the first thing we learn to do and the last thing we learn to do right. Some never learn it at all and end their lives and their happiness through the neglect. As it consumes much of our time and must always do so it is a duty to make it an adequate source of pleasure. It is something which all may appreciate, and so has much to do with demoralizing pleasure. As long as pleasure is confined to the higher—moral, literature or contemplation—it must be limited and be the privilege of a few who can have the required culture. It is important to secure enjoyments which all men may have and not deprive the capacity of the poor of joy. That there may be much happiness it must be in the many, and these can have only a simple happiness. The good things of life must be found in the common acts in the elementary things which are necessary to life itself or which every one will occasionally have. To disparage "physical" enjoyments—though all enjoyments are such—is to try to limit enjoyment to the rich or the educated.—Boston Cooking School Magazine.

Sleeping in Church. "Some men preach," said Sydney Smith, "as if they thought sin is to be taken out of a man as Eve was taken out of Adam, by eating him into a profound slumber." So at any rate thought not South, who, preaching one day at Whitehall, observed King Charles II. and several of his attendants asleep. Stopping down, he cried out to one of the delinquents, "My lord, I am sorry to interrupt you, but if you are so fond you will wake the king." His majesty thereupon awoke, and, turning to his neighbor, remarked with his accustomed good nature: "This man must be made a bishop. Remind me on the next vacancy."

STOP THAT COUGH!

Colds Lead to Catarrh—Catarrh Leads to Consumption.

A Beautiful Girl's Experience

MISS ALMA LILLIA, 506 18th St., Rock Island, Ill., says: "I am a firm friend to Peruna, for it cured me in two days of a cough, which had been annoying me for three weeks, and which had developed a serious catarrhal affection of the throat and lungs. 'I had a number of colds during the year, and each left me with a little more catarrh; then this bad cough was the worst. I took cough medicines until I sickened at the sight of them. But Peruna cured me up in such quick time that I am its firm friend. Four weeks' constant use of it got the catarrh entirely out of my system. 'It deserves all the praise bestowed upon it.'—Alma Lillia.

Nine cases of consumption out of ten occur in this way: A person catches a cold. The cold is not properly cured, and they quickly catch another one. This cold is dislodged with no treatment, or some small events and small victories. In the economy of life nothing is useless and nothing is wasted. Everything in its place is the best thing for that place. Life is a law, not an accident.—A. J. C. Norris.

Reformed. Mrs. Deaton:—In you believe in marrying a man to reform him? Mrs. Wobush:—Sure! I married my first husband to reform him. "What was wrong with him?" "He was a bachelor." "Oh, I see how you reformed him." "Not only that; I understand he had three other wives when I left him."—Yonkers Statesman.

A Young Exile. "Baba," said the pastor's little girl, watching him constructing and reciting his Sunday sermon, "does God tell you what to write?" "Yes, my child, God tells me." "Then what do you scratch it out for?"

Revenge. Withering:—I say, did you recommend that cook of ours to my wife? Pleasanton:—Yes, I believe so. Withering:—Well, I wish you would come round tonight and take dinner with us.

An Old Cure For Scoury. Scoury used to be regularly treated when it was possible by burying the patients up to their necks in fresh earth, a practice officially recommended in the British navy less than a century ago. Twenty of the crew of the frigate Diana were so treated on the shore of Donna Maria bay, Santo Domingo. Hoies were dug in the softest soil on the beach. Into each of these a man was put and buried to his chin, while a detachment of their shipmates was told off to keep the flies from their faces. They were kept in this position for two hours, and the treatment was so effective that four days later all the sufferers were able to rejoin the frigate.

Looking Glances in Coffins. One of the ancient customs connected with Swedish funerals was to place a small looking glass in the coffin of an unmarried female, so that when the last trump sounds she might be able to arrange her tresses. It was the practice for Scandinavian maidens to wear their hair flowing loosely, while the matrons wore it bound about the head and generally covered with some form of cap; hence the unmarried woman was imagined as awakening at the judgment day with more untidy locks than her wedded sisters and more in need of a glass.—Westminster Review.

The Ladder of Life. All the events of a life are necessary to a higher development. The upward task is a round by which we climb to glorious achievement. The ladder which leads us to perfection is made up of Miss Lillia, of Illinois, started out exactly in this way. Fortunately, she took a course of Peruna before it was too late. She had caught several colds, then a cough developed. She took all sorts of cough medicines, until, as she puts it, "I sickened at the sight of them." In four weeks Peruna had cured her of her catarrh and her system was entirely rid of it.

This great Peruna is doing all the while. Not a day, and probably not an hour, passes but some one has a similar experience with Peruna.

The first step toward consumption is catching cold. The next step is a failure to cure it promptly. The third step is the development of catarrh, which gradually becomes chronic. The fourth step, the catarrh begins to spread from the head to the throat. The fifth step, the catarrh spreads to the bronchial tubes and lungs. It then becomes consumption in its first stage.

At any time during the progress of the catarrh, from the first onset of the cold to its final settlement, the lungs and bronchi can be rolled upon to stop the disease. It cures entirely. Even after consumption has become thoroughly developed, many cases have been found in Peruna a permanent cure. After they have been given up by physicians to die of consumption Peruna has cured them.

We have hundreds of testimonials that declare these facts in the most enthusiastic language.

U. S. Senator John M. Thurston, from Nebraska, writes the following letter from Washington, D. C., under date of April 6, 1901:

"I have used Peruna at various times during the past year or two with most satisfactory results.

"I am entirely relieved from an irritating cough, the result of excessive effort in the Presidential campaign, and I am a firm believer in its efficacy in any such trouble."—Jno. M. Thurston.

To take quinine medicines to stop a cough is absurd and harmful. The only way to stop a cough permanently and without doing more injury than good is to cure the catarrh, which is exactly what Peruna does. It cures the catarrh of the bronchial tubes and the cough ceases.

At the slightest appearance of a cough a bottle of Peruna should be taken according to directions. One bottle in the beginning will do more than a half dozen bottles after the catarrh has fastened itself on the lungs.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.
